

Big Time Stuff Enjoyed In Maui

Excellent Vaudeville Comes To Valley
Isle From Joy Zone And Will Play
Until Sunday—Five Lions Bring
Thrills

By TU FORE

Maui's lucky star was in the ascendant this week, when her citizens had an opportunity of enjoying a three-act vaudeville show which played its initial performance at the Wailuku Orpheum. Manager Johnny Carroll who saw it at the Fair, thought those in Maui who were unable to get to the Fair should have some of the Fair brought to them, and it was through his good offices that Maui was enabled to view one of the best shows that has ever been seen here.

Of course when the five lions were advertised to show, every child on the island was agog, and the animals were well worth seeing. They are about the most magnificent animals I have ever seen and kept their trainer, Capt. Batty busy watching them at all times. They did several fine stunts and Captain Batty showed his control over them in excellent shape. One could virtually hear the thrills chasing up the youngsters' spines.

A big time act was staged, to the delight of hungry theatregoers of Maui in the original acrobatic dancing specialty of Alec and Dot Lamb. This couple claim to come direct from the Orpheum circuit on the mainland, and after seeing their act, one will readily yield to them the truth of their assertions. Mr. Lamb showed wonderful muscular control and strength and surprised his audience by his feats. The team worked in perfect accord and with the addition of beautiful back drops to assist them put over a pleasing and picturesque performance.

Probably the act that pleased the kiddies most, outside of the lions, was the Deaves Manikins. The puppet show is coming into its own in eastern theatres once again, so that Mr. Deaves is presenting to his Maui audiences a feature that is gaining considerable attention on the mainland. As advertised, it was a show in itself and the work was so smoothly and excellently done that one forgot at times it was only puppets being worked by strings.

Altogether we are glad that the show came to town. It will play at Pala tomorrow and at Puunene on Sunday. A special exhibition of the lions will be made on Sunday afternoon, at Puunene.

It is regrettable that the opening night at the Orpheum did not afford a better house to these artists, who deserve a full house for their excellent work.

Ignorance Vast Among Bolsheviks

PARIS, April 19—(By Associated Press)—Bolshevism, in the untutored mind of the Russian proletariat, is a system under which everybody has plenty of money and one needs to work only two or three hours a day, writes a special correspondent of L'Intransigeant from Russia. The money they needed, the moujiks were told, they would find in the factories, and all they would have to do would be to go and get it. Disappointment awaited them in most cases, for the great majority of the manufacturers were ruined, and the office cash boxes were generally empty. The next course was to seize the proprietor by the throat, "Where is our money?" they would demand. "The money that we've earned by our sweat and blood?"

One plant owner answered that he had no money, and offered to prove by his books that he had not even enough to keep body and soul together.

The men fumbled through the books; but being ignorant of the rule of three, they could not understand the entries. Then somebody found an entry of two million rubles under "Mortgages," the Russian for which is "Amortizatsia."

"What is this?" they demanded furiously. "Amortizatsia must be the name of a woman. She has gotten our money. Who is she? Where is she?"

The unfortunate employer vainly attempted to explain. The mob gave him five minutes to "confess," after which he was shot against his factory wall.

"Would Put ex-Kaiser on Rock Pile" headlined an exchange. While this proposition sounds commendable, would it not give more general satisfaction if it read, "Would Put Rock Pile on ex-Kaiser?"—Boston Transcript.

Omsk Progresses In Spite Of Bolsheviks

OMSK, Siberia, May 30—(By Associated Press)—American readers of the great Russian novelist, Dostoevsky, who, exiled for a political crime, spent four years at hard labor, in the fortress prison of Omsk, would hardly recognize in the Omsk of today the terrible conditions which he depicted in his book, "Recollections of the House of the Dead." It was in 1849 that Dostoevsky began his term of exile and passed through the experiences which he so powerfully pictured later. The "house of the dead" no longer exists at Omsk. It has passed to give room for the building of a more modern and more hopeful city.

It is difficult to realize how the present half million population of Omsk lives. The normal population is one hundred thousand but the constant influx of refugees from the centers of Bolshevism has swelled the number of inhabitants. To find a house or apartment is not to be thought of in the present day Omsk, chosen as the capital of the provisional All-Russian government. The most humble room is not to be obtained without the intervention of friends or the help of the authorities who do not hesitate to requisition rooms in case of urgent need. The city is without electricity except in a few sections and the streets at night are in obscurity. For that reason few persons go out after eight or nine o'clock because of the possible danger or robbery or worse. Public safety has, however, greatly improved in the past two months.

Impending Buildings Seen
Omsk in its main thoroughfare has many finely appointed office buildings and some modern apartment houses. The residential section consists of low-built houses of wood or mortar. There are several fine views due to the presence of many domed churches and the long expanses of space afforded by the rivers Irtysh and Om which meet in the very heart of the city. At forty below zero few women are seen in the streets, but the advent of a day when the mercury rises nearer zero brings out a large number of ladies who look very attractive in their great-coats of varied colored furs and their overshoes always prettily bordered with mink or hare. The Siberian hare's fur is utilized in the fashioning of warm and attractive hats with long streamers covering the ears and tying under the chin. Hare are so plentiful that these hats are within the financial reach of almost everybody.

It is the orthodox cathedral, dedicated by the late Emperor Nicholas in 1891, which looms up, vast and imposing, as the dominating structure of the capital. On one side is the former residence of the civil governor of Omsk, now used by the foreign office, and on the opposite side of the square is the imposing Ministry of Justice, as yet uncompleted. The cathedral, which is called the Church of the Ascension of the Saviour, is a vast edifice capable of holding 1,600 persons. During the Saturday night and Sunday morning services the brilliant and glittering auditorium is crowded with people, all standing in accordance with Russian custom. The cathedral has a great dome surrounded by several turrets and has on one side a high tower of finely sculptured stone surmounted by a spire.

In 1714, Peter the First sent a commission to the Omsk region to erect a small fortress on the bank of the river Om, from which the city later took its name. In 1765, began the construction of a new and more solid fortress. It was in the form of a polygon with five bastions. Beside it was erected later the wooden prison, surrounded by a high palisade, which served to imprison Russian political exiles, and in which Dostoevsky spent his four years for having been in the Pougatchef riots. This was the "Dead House" which he later described to the world in protest of the horrors of Siberian banishment.

Dickshunerry
"I saw you reading the dictionary. Do you find it interesting?"
"No, amusing. You see, the dictionary and I spell words so differently."

Tear-ible
"I'll run you through and through."
"I'll run you through and through."
"I'll be darned if you do."

Governor Selects Commissioners

Treasurer Delbert E. Metzger, Attorney General Harry Irwin, A. D. Castro, J. M. McChesney and J. P. Dias were commissioned by Governor C. J. McCarthy this week as members of the mutual and fraternal benefit society commission, under Act 101 passed by the 1919 legislature.

"The United States vs. One Buick

Automobile," is the title of a case which is attracting interest in the federal court in Honolulu. Some time ago an arrest was made in an opium case, in which auto number 2790 was used to transport the drug. The automobile was seized by Special Customs Officer Salter, and has been in the possession of customs officials ever since.

Attorneys Cathcart and Thompson and George S. Curry appeared today in behalf of the von Hamm-Young Co., which claims that the machine belongs to it, and were given until June 30 to file their claims. This is the first time that a case of this kind has come up in Honolulu.

J. Kalani Peterson, one of Honolulu's original Hawaiian musicians to go to the mainland 12 or 13 years ago and popularize Hawaiian melodies, is now playing on one of the big theatrical circuits on the mainland. He is billed as "The King of All Hawaiian Musicians" and is featured as a steel guitar and ukulele soloist. A New York paper describing his steel guitar playing said "his playing has all the poetry of a Paderevski, all skill of a Kreisler and the warmth and beauty of expression of a John McCormack."

ACTORS NOW WILL FORM TRADES UNION

PARIS, May 28—(By Associated Press)—The actors and singers of the Paris stage have decided to form a regular trades-union, to be affiliated to the General Labor Federation and so compelled to take part in any strike ordered by that body.

The machinists, electricians and other employees of the theater and music-halls have been unionized for some time. The new union will try to establish a minimum salary of $4 a day with payment during rehearsals.

Only Four

Some time ago, it will be remembered, the news came from Bern that two special trains were speeding southwestward from Vienna conveying "all the archdukes remaining in Austria, their suites and their baggage," en route for Switzerland. Now Switzerland is noted for her hospitality toward "the king in exile," but, on this occasion, it appears, her hospitable heart failed her at the last moment. The Journal de Geneve, at any rate, announces that only four archdukes have been permitted by the federal government to come to Switzerland. All, moreover, have been required to give an undertaking "to abstain from politics and propaganda." The fact of the matter is that the exile business is becoming too large to remain any longer unregulated.

Be Calm and Careful

Let us see to it that our plans are drawn with the view not only to the acts which morality and virtue require of us, but also to the manner in which we are to perform these acts.

Let us see to it that in our speech we use words and tones calculated not only for the purpose of avoiding offense to our brethren, but also of conveying to them pleasure and happiness.

Let us exercise tact, which, in its sense, may be defined as that spiritual delicacy of feeling which is sensitive to every susceptibility and emotions of our fellowmen.

Let us cultivate our senses so as to better appreciate the beautiful things with which we are nearer and nearer to Him from whom flows every good and perfect gift.

Let us see to it that we keep our bodies clean and wholesome, and fit dwellings for clean and beautiful souls.

INFLUENZA GOT US BUT SMALLPOX NOT

PARIS, April 28—(By Associated Press)—The world war will be held unique in the fact that it has not been accompanied by an outbreak of smallpox. This may be due in part to the precautions taken in urging all Paris to be vaccinated or re-vaccinated. At any rate more than 1,374,000 persons were vaccinated during the war, and only 56 cases of smallpox were recorded, of which 26 were fatal.
